However, Rufus took Penny to his heart . . . she supplanting another pet deer he had which was killed by a hunter last year.

Yanks Join Caen Battle

RUSSIA—Red Army troops were fighting at the Berezina river in the Borisov area today in the drive toward Minsk, while to the south, a second Soviet column advanced from Osipovich. Other Red troops took Vetrovo, cutting off the Nazi-held rail junction of Polotsk. Belinichi, west of Mogilev, also was captured.

By WES GALLAGHER
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 30 (AP)—Marshal Rommel has brought entirely fresh reserves into Normandy but the Allies have hammered a "considerable salient" into enemy lines southwest of Caen, supreme headquarters announced tonight.

Advance elements of Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey's British Second Army, thrusting on both sides of Caen, were reported within 11 miles of drawing a circle about that port, the seventh most important in France.

The situation was described by headquarters as "altogether satisfactory."

Field dispatches said Rommel's effort to smash the salient between the Odon and Orne rivers had been a complete failure, although a Nazi counterattack on Dempsey's right flank last night drove the British back more than a mile in the initial stages.

Headquarters said the Germans suffered "very heavy casualties" in these counterattacks, and field dispatches estimated two dozen enemy tanks were knocked out or crippled.

(The German radio said Rommel's tanks were under command of Gen. Geyer von Schweppenberg, military attache in London before the war.)

From newly captured Marcelet, Montgomery's troops struck east toward Caen in a thrust that menaced one of the city's main airfields. At last reports Allied troops were only half a mile from this field.

(An American armored division has moved into the battle area southwest of Caen in support of British mechanized forces smashing forward through German positions, the Berlin radio was quoted today by International News Service.)

Roger D. Greene, Associated Press writer, reported Marshal von Rundstedt's first counterblow against the British corridor across the river Odon southwest of Caen was a "complete failure" according to an advanced headquarters officer.

Infantry supported by more than 30 tanks attacked. Montgomery's right flank in the sector between Vire and Gauris. The thrust, aimed at Cheux, carried within half a mile of Le Haut du Bosq but deadlier fire from British guns knocked out a dozen Nazi tanks and the enemy beat a swift retreat during which the British extended the width of the corridor to the west.

Rocket-firing Allied warplanes shot up another dozen German tanks in an attack on the east flank near Carpiquet, three miles west of Caen.

In the American sector to the west, Gen. Bradley's troops made a series of small attacks southward of St. Lo in an effort to straighten their lines. The doughboys also were beating down dwindling resistance on Cap de la Hague.

The supreme command announced that Commodore William Sullivan, one of the foremost salvage experts in the American Navy, has been sent to work to bring Cherbourg's docking facilities back into operation. He worked at Pearl Harbor, cleared Casablanca and Oran harbors and was one of the directors of the Naples operation.

FRANCE—As new British-Canadian landings are reported at Cabourg (arrow), other British units today were within 11 miles of encircling Caen. A new armored division was helping southwest of Caen, Berlin said.

Pacific War: Japs Peril Allied Air Plan

By The Associated Press
Tokyo radio today pictured the flaring battle for Hengyang as at its climax and claimed another important Chinese city near the China coast had been overpowered in a hitherto unmentioned campaign.

The China campaign with its dire threat to Allied air plans moved to a showdown while the American investment of northern Saipan island settled into a slow, bitter struggle in rugged terrain. U. S. Marines and infantry surged north of Mt. Tapochau at the island's center and probed through wrecked Garapan, Saipan's capital.

The Jap radio said Lishui (Chuchow) in Chekiang province, fronting on the east China sea, had been reduced June 26. Lishui, 400 miles northeast of Hengyang, is 60 miles from the coast and has been mentioned by the Japs as the site of an American airbase and an important base also for the Chinese.

Coupled with yesterday's disclosure the 14th U. S. Air Force base at Hengyang had been captured, the Lishui claim revealed more of Japan's great base to prevent establishment of full-scale air power in China.

Gen. Chennault previously has revealed existence of Allied bases east of the Hankow-Canton railway, down which the Japs are driving.

Americans digging out enemy troops on Saipan overwhelmed a pocket of Japs cornered on Natutan peninsula far behind the main fighting line.

Air forces of Adm. Nimitz and Gen. MacArthur applied their combined weight in neutralizing attacks on Yap, Truk and Pagan islands, the latter suffering a blow knocking out its airbase. Pagan is in the Marianas with Saipan.

Reds Battle Way Across Last River at Minsk Gate

MOSCOW, June 30 (AP)—Red Army units in force jumped today into the Berezina river northeast of Minsk while engineers of two Soviet armies hurried pontoons into place for mass crossings of the last natural obstacle before the White Russian capital.

Allies Speed Drive in Italy

ROME, June 30 (AP)—German troops on Italy's west coast, breaking off contact, fled northward yesterday and the Americans, in swift pursuit, reached the vicinity of Cecina, only 20 airline miles south of the port of Livorno, Allied headquarters said today.

American armored forces farther inland stabbed to within seven miles of Siena, and French troops on their right were only 30 miles from the same target.

Cuttyhunk Crash Sinks Sweeper

Two officers and five crew members of a coastal minesweeper are missing following collision with a destroyer escort vessel off Cuttyhunk, the Navy announced today. The minesweeper was sunk. Names of the missing were not disclosed.

Cuttyhunk is a small island of the Elizabeth island chain, separating Buzzards bay from Vineyard sound.

Naval and Coast Guard rescue craft picked up the commanding officer and six enlisted men of the minesweeper. First Naval Headquarters said, while the destroyer escort, which suffered no apparent damage in the collision, aided in search for the others.

Robot Bombs Kill Many Children

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—The Germans intensified their blind bombardment of southern England today with robot aerial torpedoes, killing several dozen persons.

The robots were flung across the channel at frequent intervals during the day. A children's hostel, a hotel, shops, homes and office buildings were hit.

Men tore at the charred wreckage of the children's hostel with shovels and bare hands, recovering small bodies one by one.

One bomb cut into a hotel annex roof causing several deaths. Another smashed small shops and a home, killing several. Six died in another incident. A hit on an office building killed several more.

In one area where a bomb hit, a great column of smoke boiled up and when it cleared, dead, injured and smashed vehicles littered the street. A postoffice, a number of buildings and a bus were hit elsewhere and there were casualties.

Pound Vienna

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—American bombers from Italy were reported by Berlin to be striking the Vienna area for the second time in 12 hours today while task forces of heavy and medium bombers from Britain darkened French skies with attacks supporting the invasion.

War Today .. Jap Double Trick

By PRESTON GROVER

(Chief of Associated Press coverage of China-Burma-India Theater, substituting for DeWitt MacKenzie.)
Japanese forces in China have turned a double trick in their drive to Hengyang. They have half the railway from Hankow to Canton and Hongkong and have closed one American air base and landed on the doorsteps of others from which we have been harassing Jap shipping.

Thus two important fronts are linked together, although it is more than 1300 miles from Hengyang to Myitkyina, scene of the battle for the China supply route.

To get Hengyang in mind, take Shanghai as New York, Hankow as Chicago and Hongkong as New Orleans. Hengyang then becomes St. Louis. From Hankow a railroad used to run through Hengyang to Hongkong. Chinese forces tore up the rails, but the Japs have been rebuilding it. It will bump airline as well as the Burma road, which Gen. Stilwell is trying to re-open.

Myitkyina becomes important at once. Its capture will permit bigger payloads from India along a lower-level, safer air route.

But the Americans have not completed the capture of Myitkyina. There are a lot of Japs there, and they bring in reinforcements overland from the south. Allied reinforcements must come by air or narrow jungle trails swamped now by the monsoon.

3 Now Linked In Girl Slaying

Asst. Dist. Atty. John R. Wheatley today ordered the roundup of three men, including one described as "the best suspect to date," for questioning in connection with the kidnap-murder of Frances McGrath after a two-hour conference with police and medical authorities.

He said whereabouts of the "best suspect" was known and that he would be brought in before tonight. He predicted the others would be picked up within 24 hours.

Asked if the man to be questioned today might eliminate the other two, Wheatley replied:

"No, at the very least it will put three men into the case instead of two."

STUDY MEDICAL REPORT

The Wheatley announcement followed a long session in Norwell State Police barracks at which all medical evidence and other facts in the case were carefully reviewed.

He disclosed that there was disagreement among the conferees about the time of Frances' death. One group believed she was alive up to 36 hours before she was found June 16 in a woodland, he said, because of the lack of advanced decomposition and the condition of the blood.

Another theory held that the food found in the child's stomach was the last meal she ate at her home before vanishing June 10. This would indicate he said, Frances was killed shortly after she was kidnaped since authorities held it was not considered possible the food would have remained in her stomach for four or more days.

Wheatley said both theories were being taken into consideration in the effort to establish the time of the girl's death.

The report of Medical Examiner Norbert Lough revealed the child shed considerable blood, Wheatley said. He quoted Lough as saying "there must be considerable blood where the actual killing took place, too."

Although Wheatley declined to give any details about the "best suspect," it was learned he had a long criminal record and was known as a notorious South Shore character. None of his past crimes, however, included the type which resulted in the death of the 10-year-old girl.

Police said every move the man has made since the night when Frances disappeared has been checked and they are in possession of full knowledge of his actions.

It was also said police knew where he had been since he vanished shortly after the kidnaping. Police added the reasons the man gave for his actions were known to be false.

The unnamed man was known to have been in the company of another suspect on the night of June 10. The second man was questioned earlier by police and released.

From acquaintances of the suspect, police learned the man had given definite signs his conscience was bothering him.

Stalin Sends F. D. Cherbourg Praise

WASHINGTON, June 30 (INS)—Marshal Stalin today sent a personal message to President Roosevelt congratulating Anglo-American troops for their "brilliant success" in the liberation of Cherbourg. His message said:

"My warm congratulations go to you on the liberation of Cherbourg from the German usurpers. The valiant American and British troops are greeted by me on the occasion of their brilliant success."

Noxon Admits Buying Cords

By PAULINE WARREN

PITTSFIELD, June 30—During the slashing cross-examination of John F. Noxon, socialite corporation counsel, on trial for the murder of his 6-months-old defective son, the prosecution today attempted to link a third electric cord to the infant's electrocution last September.

The mysterious cord, which the State hinted was bought just before the baby's death, was the subject of prolonged questioning.

Noxon admitted he bought it for his soldering iron, but was unable to testify when or where the purchase was made.

Noxon denied that the third cord, which the prosecution claims he shortened, was first a long one so "as to be able to reach the child," according to the cross-examination. The cord and the soldering iron, for which Noxon said he purchased the cord, were produced in court today by defense counsel upon request of the government.

ASKS ABOUT SCAR

Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti, after asking if he knew that solder contained lead and tin, shot at him:

"How did lead and tin get on the dumbbell-shaped lesion on your child's arm?" Noxon replied that he did not know.

The crippled attorney has always maintained that the light cord he was using to repair his radio was his infant's instrument of accidental death, caused when the baby, wearing a wet diaper, may have touched the wire as he lay on a metal tray.

Further questioning from Alberti elicited that Noxon had cut up the cord to get rid of the socket end and that a part of the wire was missing.

"DID YOU GET WIRE?" "What did you do with it?" asked Alberti. "Did you have it with you in the book room on the day the baby died? Did you get a long wire first so as to be able to reach the child?"

An exact replica of the cord Noxon is supposed to have bought just before the baby's death and the soldering iron he says he attached it to were both marked for identification.

Alberti asked if Noxon had ash barrels in his cellar into which he could have thrown the trouble cord instead of burning it. Noxon replied he had been afraid someone else might pick it up and get hurt.

"Was that the same reason you burned the shirt and diaper?"

"No. I was afraid Mrs. Noxon might see them," was the reply.

"Then why didn't you burn the socks, so she couldn't see that?"

"I didn't think of it," answered Noxon.

"When you worked on your radio before you used a flashlight, why didn't you use a flashlight this time? Why did you have to have the trouble cord?"

"The trouble light was more convenient, I could then use two hands to change the tubes," said Noxon.

"Why did you put your child with a wet diaper on a metal tray used primarily to serve food?" asked the prosecutor.

"The tray was used for all sorts of purposes," was the reply.

Trapped Convict Takes Own Life

BALTIMORE, June 30 (AP)—A 21-year-old prisoner, trapped in a stone tower at the Maryland penitentiary while attempting to escape, shot and killed himself today with the shotgun he used to hold guards at bay, Warden Patrick Brady reported.

A crowd of 500 watched while police threw a cordon around the pen wall and guards shot tear gas into the tower before opening fire. The prisoner, Salvador Appitio of Baltimore, was serving 50 years for assault and robbery.

U. S. Breaks All Ties With Finland

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The United States finally broke off relations with Finland today, declaring that Scandinavian country to be "a puppet of Nazi Germany."

After weathering many diplomatic crises during the three years in which Finland and Russia have been at war, this government, through the State Department, made the break at approximately 11 a. m. eastern war time.

A State Department official at that hour handed to the Finnish charge d'affaires, Alexander Thesleff—last remaining Helsinki representative here—his passport and a note from Secretary Hull giving reasons for the break.

Hull stated the recent infiltration of German troops into Finland "with the consent of the Finnish government and German infiltration into the councils of the Finnish government deprived Finland of liberty of action and rendered the government of the republic of Finland to the condition

Week-End Will Be Cool

Promise of a comfortable week-end for Boston and New England was given today by the weather bureau as lower temperatures and refreshing breezes brought an end to the heat which had gripped the city since Monday.

Weather bureau officials said the temperature might reach the low 80's today, in sharp contrast to yesterday's maximum of 95. The prospect was for fair and comfortably cool weather for the next two days.

An electrical storm, which struck with intensity in Rhode Island and Connecticut, although it missed Boston entirely, was responsible for lifting the four-day torrid wave.

Babs' Son Taken From California

LOS ANGELES, June 30 (AP)—Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, who yesterday dropped a suit against his ex-wife, dime store heiress Barbara Hutton Grant, for sole custody of their 9-year-old son, Lance, has left the state with the child, his attorney, Joseph L. Lewinson, announced today.

Lewinson refused to say whether they would be back in California by tomorrow. The boy was scheduled to be returned to his mother, wife of Actor Cary Grant, under an intermittent custody agreement.

"Neither the separation agreement nor the decree of the high court of justice of England requires that Lance be kept in California or near his mother's place of abode," Lewinson said in a written statement. In 1939, while both parties lived abroad, Mrs. Grant, as she now is, not only took Lance from England to the United States but refused to return him.

Lewinson added he had informed Mrs. Grant's counsel last night that his client and Lance had left California.

Dead Son's Last Word

Hero's Letter Cheers Mother

A sorrowing Tewksbury mother, whose hero Marine son gave his life in South Pacific fighting, today had a never-to-be-forgotten tribute to help assuage a grief that now is known to thousands of women of America.

She is Mrs. Jeremiah Houlihan of Texas rd., Tewksbury, whose son, Marine Sgt. Paul Houlihan, 24, did not fear death and regretted only that he would not be back to make her remaining years more comfortable. All this he wrote in a letter which was not to be sent home unless he fell in battle.

But Paul did not return and his superior officer forwarded this tragic but brave last message:

Dearest Mother: Though I feel no premonition at all, events are moving rapidly and I have instructed that this letter be forwarded to you should I fail to return from one of the raids which we shall shortly be called to undertake. You must hope on for a month but, at the end of that time you must accept the fact that I have sacrificed myself for what we know is right, as so many splendid fellows have done.

Though it will be difficult for you, you will disappoint me if you do not at least try to accept this fact, for I shall have done my duty to the utmost of my ability. No man can do more and no one calling himself a man could do less.

"ADMIRE YOUR COURAGE" I have always admired your courage in the face of continued setbacks, in the way you have given me as good an education and background as anyone in this country. My death would not mean that your struggle has been in vain, far from it. It means that your sacrifice is as great as mine.

Today we are faced with the greatest challenge to Christianity and civilization that the world has ever seen, and I count myself honored to be the right age and fully trained to throw my full weight into the battle. For this I have to thank you. There is more work for you to do. The home front will still have to stand united for years after the war is won.

You must not grieve for me. I have no fear of death. I would have it no other way. We are sent to this world to acquire a personality and a character to take with us that can never be taken from us.

VETERAN OF 3 YEARS

I consider my character fully developed. Thus at my early age my earthly mission is already fulfilled and I am prepared to die with just one regret, and only one. That is that I could not devote myself to making your declining years more happy by being with you, but you will live in peace and freedom and I shall have directly contributed to that, so here again my life will not have been in vain.

Your loving and devoted son,
PAUL.

The young Marine was a veteran of three years' service in the Marine Corps, two of them overseas. He was a graduate of Tewksbury High School, where he was an outstanding athlete, winning letters in football, baseball and track. Before he enlisted in the Marines, he was employed at the Waltham Watch Co. plant as an expert machine operator.

His father is a member of the Tewksbury police department and a brother, Sgt. William Houlihan, served 22 months at Guadalcanal before being sent back to this country last December. He is now stationed at Ft. Devens.

A sister, Mrs. Marie Del Torto, also lives in Tewksbury.

THIS IS FOR HISTORY—Councilor Michael A. Sullivan, who has been throwing his weight around as "mayor" of Cambridge, poses outside City Hall for this "official" photo . . . for the city's historical archives.

Cops Guard Mayor Back at His Desk

While a police detail barred the way to all other aspirants, Mayor John H. Corcoran of Cambridge returned to his city hall duties today—a bit late but at least with the mayoralty field all to himself.

The mayor arrived at 10:10 a. m. and delved at once into a foot-deep pile of correspondence. He told reporters city business must come first and that he would hold a press conference a little later.

Conspicuously missing was Councilor Michael A. Sullivan, who had held sway in the office through three days of good, clean fun, and resorted to the telephone today to report he still was in the running.

Sullivan vowed he had put in a pretty strenuous week and needed a day at the beach. He added since tomorrow was a half holiday he would stay near the water over the week-end and look the mayoralty situation over again Monday morning.

Mayor Corcoran slipped through a basement door to gain entrance to his office. He was garbed in gray suit, new sailor straw hat and a bright tie that was almost fragrant.

Observers compared his outfit quite favorably with the sartorial splendor of Sullivan during his three-day tenure of office.

"Good morning, gentlemen," he said in greeting a rather large delegation of the press.

"I haven't any time to discuss the mayoralty situation now," he added.

"City business is away behind schedule because of all this nonsense and I must catch up with things. You can see the police are here. They have been told to lead Mr. Sullivan from the building if he comes around bothering me any more. I hope it won't be necessary. I don't think it will."

Ready to do Corcoran's bidding was Sgt. Charles Warnock, who assumed an imposing position right outside the mayor's office door.

Capt. Robert J. Douglas, Jr., also was on deck just in case additional help might be needed.

Mrs. Higginson Under Knife

Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, socialite wife of a Boston naval officer, unconscious since she was brutally beaten in her West Cornwall, Ct. home, June 15, will undergo an operation today to relieve pressure caused by the beating she suffered.

Dr. Gilbert H. Horrax, noted Lahey Clinic brain specialist, said the operation will be performed in Deaconess Hospital where Mrs. Higginson has been under treatment. He said a pus pocket "at the site of a previous operation" would be opened to ease the pressure.

The decision to operate followed indications that Mrs. Higginson was gradually regaining consciousness after her 15-day coma. Her condition was described as "fair" and she was reported to have moved her hands for the first time.

Holiday Throngs Tax Rail Lines

Come war, come peace, come ODT, thousands of holiday weekend vacationers left the city today in a steady exodus to vacation resorts in New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine, taxing every available transportation facility of the Boston and Maine railroad.

The Kennebec Limited for Bangor left North Station this morning with 14 cars and the Flying Yankee, over the same route at noon, had 13 cars.

Throughout the day, trains bound for northern New England vacation spots were crowded to capacity, indicating this year's glorious Fourth travel will exceed last year's.

Governor Home, Sees G.O.P. Win

Asserting the Republican party had a "good, fighting ticket—one which I am confident can be elected," Gov. Saltonstall returned today to his State House office after attending his party's Chicago convention.

"I will go further than that," the Governor said, "and say that I am confident the ticket will be elected in November. But we've got to work hard."

The Governor said he felt that youth and the better administration of the nation's domestic problems would be the outstanding arguments of the Republican party during the coming campaign.

"Gov. Dewey will continue to grow in stature as the campaign progresses," he declared.

Lowell Man Killed In Plunge Down Shaft

LOWELL, June 30.—Arthur O'Toole, 63, of Aiken st., was instantly killed today when he plunged 60 feet down an open elevator well at the Merrimack Mill Co.

Witnessed Parents' Quarrel

Mother of 6 Shot! Cops Hunt Husband

Shot twice in the chest after a bitter quarrel which her six children overheard, Mrs. Alice Di Francisco, 36, of Market st., Cambridge, fought for her life today in Cambridge City Hospital instead of appearing in court to file her contemplated action for separate support.

As the mother battled against death, police sought her husband, Frank, 46, to question him concerning the tragedy. He disappeared immediately after the shooting.

At the hospital, officials reported several transfusions had been given the wounded woman, who was placed under an oxygen tent. Her condition was said to be "too serious" to permit removal of bullets embedded in her chest.

Sixteen-year-old Anna, second oldest of the children, told police her mother had intended filing court action today for separate support.

She said the children in their beds heard the mother and father arguing and that she saw the latter hit her mother twice before she fled to the bathroom and locked the door.

"The gun was fired twice through the door," Anna told police. "My father brought the gun home a year ago but we found it and hid it twice."

On her way to the hospital in a police ambulance, the woman kept repeating, "he shot me, he shot me," police said.

The quarrel that led to the shooting was her refusal to join her husband in seeking the release from Westboro State Hospital of one of his three children by a previous marriage, according to police.

De Francisco is a boiler maker employed at the Bethlehem shipyard at Hingham.

A squad of Cambridge police found DeFrancisco's car with a flat tire abandoned in Broadway, about a half-mile from his home. They believe he boarded a subway train at Kendall station and went to Boston.

$3,920,320,000 Bill To Finance Allies

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed today a $3,920,320,000 supply bill to finance aid to the nation's Allies during the fiscal year starting tomorrow.

The lion's share of the total, approximately $3,450,500,000, is earmarked for the lend-lease program, with the rest allocated to the foreign administration (FEA) and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA).

General Strike In Copenhagen

LONDON, June 30 (INS)—A work stoppage assuming the proportions of a general strike broke out in Copenhagen last night as the latest in a long series of anti-German demonstrations. Reuter's reported today in a dispatch from Stockholm.

Reuter's said the cause of the strike was believed to be the arrest of several trade union leaders.

INVASION SHOW Has Complete War Realism

All the most terrifying of America's instruments of war go into action in the big INVASION BOND SHOW July 4—next Tuesday—in the Charles River Basin.

So it was assured today by Secretary of War Henry L. Simson, who gave orders for immediate shipment to Boston of certain of the devastating war machines that are lacking in this area.

Army and Navy "Ducks," flame throwers, tanks and a few surprise weapons that Bostonians never have seen will provide a show that is expected to leave spectators awed and gasping.

The big water spectacle will be a real INVASION SHOW, with roaring guns, bursting bombs and sheets of real flame flashing across the waters of the Charles.

Ready to protect the many thousands that gather on both sides of the river and line its bridges are more than 1000 crack State Guards of the 26th Infantry. The big detail will be commanded by Col. Vincent C. Breen, D. S. C., long experienced in handling events of such magnitude.

Another who has given every aid to the Boston retail merchants in planning the show is Cong. John W. McCormack.

BANKS OR STORES

Remember, that only two days remain in which to obtain tickets for a show that no patriotic American can afford to miss. Bonds must be bought either in banks or department and specialty stores between now and closing hour on Saturday, because all stores will be closed on Monday and Tuesday. You can't afford to delay an hour.

Those who haven't done their bit in the Fifth War Loan Drive ought to take a tip from Mary Fitzgerald, of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser staff. Although tapping out a great bulk of the publicity promoting the INVASION BOND SHOW, Mary saved her nickels, dimes and quarters, by getting along with less ice cream sodas bought a war bond at the Merchants' National Bank where her chum is employed, and obtained her own ticket for Tuesday afternoon's show. Meanwhile, she was attending to her other duties as secretary to the Massachusetts Youth Committee.

EXTRA TRAINS

Anticipating a record-breaking crowd, all transportation authorities are co-operating with the merchants' bond committee. The Boston Elevated, Eastern Massachusetts, Boston and Albany, New Haven and Boston and Maine railroads all plan to run extra trains and buses as do the Greyhound Lines.

It's up to you to back the Boston merchants and make their independent bond drive a success by acting today and tomorrow. Don't be a slacker!

Child's 'Hi, Judge!' Stirs Divorce Court

Raising his right hand high in imitation of witness, Barry Cunha, a bright 3-year-old youngster, today greeted Judge John V. Mahoney with a cheery "Hi, Judge" prior to a divorce granted to his mother.

Mrs. Evelyn Cunha of Columbus sq., South End.

Judge Mahoney smiled a greeting and then heard Mrs. Cunha tell how her trouble with the lad's father, Joseph, began over his gambling. She said her plea that he reform only won her two blackened eyes. She was granted custody of Barry and $10 weekly for his support.

The divorce, granted on grounds of cruelty, was one of four complaining wives in Suffolk Probate Court. None of the husbands contested.

Mrs. Louise Frances Breiman of Queensbury at, Back Bay, was given a divorce after she testified refusal to turn over war bonds got her a severe beating from her husband, Oscar.

SPAR Florence D. Callahan of Medway appeared in uniform to win freedom from Joseph L. Callahan. She claimed their marriage of little more than a year came to grief during a blackout in Everett a year ago.

Visiting at the home of relatives, she was choked and beaten in an argument and was saved only when she pulled on the lights and an investigating warden came to her rescue, according to testimony. Her husband was in court but took no action.

Marie L. Oullette of Amory st., Jamaica Plain, was granted custody of three children following testimony her husband beat her regularly during a marriage which began Oct. 17, 1929.

In another session of Suffolk Probate Court, Judge Frederick J. Dillon granted freedom to Mrs. Dominica Rosa Theodora of Oneida st., South End, from Peter E. Theodore, a Navy sailor now at Norfolk, Va.

Timken Co. Crippled As 9000 Walk Out

CANTON, O., June 30 (AP)—Four divisions of Timken Ball Bearing Co. were virtually shut down today as 9,000 of the 11,000 employees walked out in protest of what union leaders termed "a complete breakdown in labor relations."

The regional WLB revised an earlier back-to-work order to stress that unionists were to return "at once." The board previously warned that a grievance hearing scheduled for July 5 would not be held unless production were resumed before that date.

Pocket-Dipping OK for Husband

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 14 (AP)—Be careful where you hang those slacks, girls! City Judge Michael E. Zimmer up it all right for your husband to go through your pockets.

Discharging Frank Wolski, accused of stealing $100 from his wife, Rose, the judge declared the common law rule that one party to a marriage cannot be guilty of larceny of the other party is reciprocal. He commented: "The court takes judicial notice that from time immemorial it has been the custom of the wife to dip her hands into the pockets of her husband. To rule that such a practice is larceny would, in the court's opinion, strain the marriage relationship."

5-Cent Coffee In New Order

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The "freeze" of restaurant prices now in effect in most parts of the country will be extended July 31 to virtually all of the nation's public eating and drinking establishments, OPA announced.

1—Five cents will be the top price any restaurant may charge for a cup or pot of hot coffee, including cream and sugar, unless it charged a higher price during the seven-day period Oct. 4-10, 1942.

2—April 4-10, 1943, base period ceiling prices must be posted by all eating and drinking establishments for 40 basic menu items served.

3—Higher prices than those of the base period may not be charged because of an increase in quantity or an improvement in quality.

Extension of the freeze provisions to the balance of the country brings under them for the first time the states of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Motor Deaths Up 11 Per Cent

CHICAGO, June 30 (AP)—War time traffic in the United States took a toll of 9400 lives in the first five months of 1944, the National Safety Council said today, an increase of 11 per cent—about 1600 lives—over the corresponding period of 1943.

Increased motor vehicle travel was responsible for part of the growing traffic toll, the council said.

Hitler Readies Hideaway?

LONDON, June 30 (INS)—Reports from the German frontier indicated today Hitler may be converting his Berchtesgaden retreat into a "last stand" fortress, stocked with supplies to last several years.

London Daily Mail dispatches said "many truckloads of supplies had arrived at Berchtesgaden recently. Supplies known to have been stored in the mountain hide-out were said to be sufficient to 'last several years.'"

In the event of danger, Hitler's followers are expected to rally round him and live on supplies stored in the underground galleries, the paper said.

Argentine War Talk Bared

WASHINGTON, June 30 (INS)—The barometer of Argentine-U.S. relations dropped today to indicate a new gathering storm as the State Department made available the text of a sword-rattling, jingoistic speech by the Argentine minister of war, Col. Juan Peron, the powerful behind the Buenos Aires government.

Peron declared all attempts at bringing peace or an established international order are foredoomed failure and urged the "best interests of the nation to strive to win war as the only way of finding solution of the problems" of Argentina.

Though the state department withheld comment, it was unprecedented for the department to insist and make available a speech of a foreign official. This was a tacit expression of extreme displeasure over the Argentine official's remarks.

Peron delivered his flaming orations in a ledger on "National Defense" at the University La Plata, June 10. His remarks were a startling similarity to the earlier proclamations of Mussolini.

His speech was one factor which provoked recall of U. S. Ambassador Armour, who left Buenos Aires yesterday for Washington. In the face of Pan-American pledges of peace, Peron declared that for Argentine officers it is a "fundamental duty to be prepared for greatest sacrifices on the field of battle."

Greater Buying Of E Bonds Urged

Massachusetts War Finance Committee officials today urged that more emphasis be placed on the payroll savings plan as a means of putting the Fifth War Loan over the top.

The committee announced that, with only eight business days remaining in the drive, sales in all bond issues in the state stood at 73.3 per cent of the $828,000,000 quota. They pointed out, however, that the volume of E bond sales had reached only 32.6 per cent of its goal.

Payroll savings plans provide a valuable and steady contribution to the Fifth War Loan, the committee announced, because the success or failure of the drive depends on the increased, continued buying of the general public. Industrial buying is its part, but payroll programs provide an essential part of the program.

It is up to the average citizen now to make sacrifices, to increase his regular purchases by buying more bonds.

Bricker Hailed At Home

COLUMBUS, O., June 30 (AP)

Gov. Bricker came home from the Republican National Convention last night to the most tumultuous welcome of his career.

An old-fashioned torchlight parade and political rally greeted the G. O. P. vice-presidential nominee and later virtually every resident of nearby Mt. Sterling turned out for a celebration at his birthplace here.

Thousands lined this city's main thoroughfare and cheered as the candidate rode on the back of an open automobile through a storm of confetti.

During the rally in the state house square Bricker promised to work unstintingly "to preserve this beloved land of ours, the finest God ever created, and to help her take her place of leadership among the nations of the world."

Schoolboys Offered Jobs in Foundries

Lack of heavy labor in forge shops and foundries in the war's No. 1 bottleneck, W. H. Wheeler, Jr., regional WPB director, said today in appealing for the help of high school boys.

"If a husky high school boy is football material for next fall, here's a workout to rival any overseas task," Wheeler said.

8th Nazi General Lost in France

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Col. Gen. Friedrich Dollmann, 62, commander of the German Seventh Army and defender of the middle section of the "Atlantic Wall," has been killed in action in France, the Berlin radio announced today.

He was the highest ranking general of eight thus far killed or captured in the fighting in Normandy.

A German announcement said Dollmann died Tuesday. On that evening, RAF dive bombers and rocket firing Typhoons were briefed on secret information and attacked a small crossroads hamlet near St. Sauver-Lendelin in the southern end of the Cherbourg peninsula.

The bombers moved in first on a small farmhouse which had been pointed out as corps headquarters. Every bomb scored in the target area. Typhoons then dove into the smoke firing their rockets. Pilots reported the house destroyed.

Bar Scores High Court

FT. WORTH, Tex., June 30 (AP)—The U. S. Supreme Court has "rendered it impossible for the practicing lawyer to advise his client as to what the law is today, or even to offer a guess as to what it will be tomorrow," a resolution adopted by the Texas bar declares.

The court "has repeatedly overruled decisions, precedents and landmarks of the law of long standing without assigning any valid reason therefor," read the resolution adopted, "dismissing the question with a wave of the hand, and contenting itself with the assertion these precedents have been eroded by the processes of the years; or basing its decision on casuistry and sophistry rather than by logic."

Michelson at 73 Back in Harness for F. D.

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Charles Michelson, who directed the Democratic national committee's publicity campaigns for 13 years, is back in harness to lend his advice and experience in the 1944 presidential campaign.

Michelson, former New York newspaperman, took active charge of the Democratic publicity in the 1932 campaign when President Roosevelt defeated Herbert Hoover for re-election. He continued the work during the 1936 and 1940 campaigns but gave up active direction early last year after passing his 73d birthday.

Wind Pull

HOLLYWOOD, June 30 (AP)—Enns. Roger McCaughey, 22, stuck his arm out of his plane—and couldn't pull it back in again.

As he approached Tucson, Ariz., en route from Bennett Field, N. Y., the turret of his plane dropped, and he reached out to replace it. The wind velocity was so great he was unable to pull his arm back inside the cockpit until several ligaments were torn badly.

He continued on to Hollywood, and received emergency treatment.

Hub Police Morale Hurt by Job Trading

The political trading that gave the Boston police Joseph J. Leonard as its commissioner is disclosed in the sixth article of this series showing the depressing effect of politics upon the morale and efficiency of the department.

By BARRINGTON WELLES

Joseph J. Leonard, successor to Police Commr. Eugene J. Hultman, was distinguished mainly for the brevity of his regime. It was the political background of his appointment that will interest the readers of this series.

With a record that included such responsible positions as chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, assistant district attorney and member of the state legislature, Leonard resigned under the fire of former Gov. James M. Curley on Feb. 19, 1935, less than two months after his appointment by retiring Gov. Joseph B. Ely on Dec. 28, 1934.

Perhaps no one was more surprised than Leonard himself when Gov. Ely appointed him commissioner. As chairman of the Boston Finance Commission he had no illusions about the swift descent of the Curley axe due to his previous feuds with the incoming governor.

FIVE MOVES

The Ely administration made desperate efforts to get him out of the path of the down-coming blade, and no less than five moves to place him in state positions were balked before Hultman's acceptance of the Metropolitan District chairmanship opened the way for the appointment of Leonard as police commissioner.

In order, he had been slated for appointment as Suffolk probate judge, Suffolk municipal court judge, Boston licensing board member, Industrial Accident Board member and Recorder of the Land Court.

Curley lost no time in announcing his intention of removing Leonard and on Feb. 10 demanded that the commissioner resign. The demand followed an unprecedented step of sending State police into Boston, over the head of the city department, to investigate the slaying of Joseph P. "Red" Sweeney, a convict of many aliases, in the Cosmos Club in Broadway early Feb. 9.

Leonard defied Curley's demand and, after a long conference, announced the formation of the "Incorruptibles," with the stated purpose of cleaning up the city.

Deputy Supt. James McDevitt, now retired, was named as the head of the squad, and his chief aide was Lt. John A. Dorsey, described by Leonard as the best officer in the department.

Another of his hand-picked group, chosen for their known records of fearlessness and integrity, was the late Sgt. Arthur Eunson, then a special officer.

Eunson was one of the several police officials, including Dorsey, against whom Atty. Gen. Robert T. Bushnell obtained the indictments which he eventually quashed. Eunson died early this year after a long illness.

The stated purpose of this group was to raid night clubs, gambling places and houses of ill fame but they found little to do because the Sweeney murder and the subsequent spectacular entry of the State police into its investigation caused a virtually complete closing of such places until the "heat" was lifted.

Sweeney's slaying occurred early in the morning of Feb. 9, when he was slugged and shot in the Cosmos club. Boston police had raided the place, which had gained considerable notoriety as a gambling house, on Jan. 22, but found no evidence.

Late in the afternoon of the day Sweeney was slain, Curley sent State police under Capt. John F. Stokes to raid the club, owned by the late "Beano" Breen.

The State police raiders found the third floor of the club had been devoted entirely to gambling and they seized paraphernalia, including roulette wheels, dice tables, a 125-foot blackboard detailing race results from all over the country, furniture and liquor valued at thousands of dollars.

On Feb. 13 the governor, after refusing Leonard's request for a public hearing on charges against him, asked the Executive Council to remove him on the grounds of incompetency and the council set Feb. 20 as a date for a hearing.

LEONARD RESIGNS

The night before the scheduled council hearing, Leonard submitted his resignation to the governor to end the briefest tenure in history for a Boston police commissioner.

The following day Gov. Curley nominated as police commissioner his close friend, Eugene McSweeney, former newspaper executive, whose public administrative record included a term as fire commissioner and membership on the Boston Sinking Fund Commission. He was accepted by the executive council 5 to 4.

McSweeney was sworn into office immediately after he informed the governor he would take over his new responsibility "without obligation to any politician."

(Tomorrow's installment tells how the politicians continued to kick the police football around only to fall out among themselves.)

Meets 2 Brighton Neighbors

By HUCK FINNEGAN

EIGHTH AIR FORCE, England.—The scene was the Sad Sack Shack, enlisted men's thirst-quenching emporium, Corp. Joe Caron, 218 Gage st., Bennington, Vt., was tickling the ivories. A dozen leather-throated individuals were singing about tulips while drinking ersatz juleps. "Give Joe a good write-up," they demanded. "He keeps us happy every night." Joe, it developed, never took a lesson in his life, yet can play any song under the moon, and specializes on those about the moon. "Played with Peanut Rice's 'Rhythm Ears' back home," said Joe, a bass electrician here. "Played for the Lodge of Eagles, too."

He looked anything but a piano player. Short, squat and dark, he could make children screech at night if he played gangster roles in the movies. The boys call him "King of Swing."

MEETS NEIGHBOR

"Anything you want to hear?" asked Joe, shushing the yodelers with his bass paw. "Yeh," burst in Sgt. Robert Gallagher. "Play 'Gee, but it's great to meet a friend from the old home town.' Understand the correspondent's from Boston."

Brighton, to be exact, and the 21-year-old waist gunner revealed that he used to live at the corner of Washington and Foster sts. Brighton, but now has his residence at 11 Gorham st., Allston, next to the Capitol theater. "Live there with my grandparents, Mr.

and Mrs. Thomas Farrell," he said. (His mother and father are dead.) Farrell, eh? Familiar name. "Any relation to Evelyn and Peg?" "My aunts," he beamed. "Say, do you know my brother Billy? He lives on So. Hobart st., or my sister Mary, Mrs. Flaherty? She lives at 490 Washington, near Lake st."

AND ANOTHER

The wiry young sergeant graduated only two years ago from Brighton High, where he was president of his fraternity. He has a girl on Bennett st., Brighton, but wouldn't reveal her name. "I'd take too much of a riding," he said.

He produced a baby's shoe. "Belongs to Mary's child," he said. "Named after me. I carry the right one, she has the left, and when we match them after the war, we're going to throw a party that Brighton will long remember. Be along, will you?"

Rain was starting to fall, and it was getting dark. Time to get home before nature's black curtain fell. I threaded my way across the military campus, past the Red Cross' Aero Club.

There I met a second Brighton chap, T. Sgt. Nunziato Sansevero, 24 Adair st., Brighton (Oak sq.). "You're the first Brightonian I've seen since I came to England," he said. Gallagher was a new arrival. His family used to live at 9 Parsons st., "Marty Finnegan owned the house. Any relation?" His parents were Mr. Anthony and Mrs. Rose Sansevero.

He has a girl in Natick, Marie Calucci. She has a 21-year-old brother, Orlando, with the Army in the Admiralty Isles (Pacific). He worked at Fore River before entering the Army and now is a radio operator gunner on a Flying Fortress, 11th Bomber Group, that had been on 24 missions, six of them over Berlin. He was a hard-bitten veteran of air war, but was as humble as a schoolboy.

"Meet my pal," he said, introducing tall, baby-faced S-Sgt. Bradford Truesdell, right waist gunner in the same crew. Truesdell said he was 27, looked 17. They had reason to be buddies. They had been on the same 24 missions, had tested flak together often.

"I married Marjorie Davis, a Roxbury girl," said Truesdell, a Northampton boy. "She's living with her parents at 149 Warren st."

"Got to run along," they said as the rain became more familiar. "If there's no mission tomorrow, will you come over and fan a bit?" They gave their locale.

I called on the morrow. They had gone on their 25th mission. I didn't see them again.

MOURNS PILOT

Master Sgt. John J. Hermann, 24, of 27 Foster st., Danbury, Ct., is crew chief of Piccadilly Lily II, as he was of Piccadilly Lily I. The first Lily, now retired, was the ship that General Lay made nationally famous in an article on their Danbury but he likes his present Regensburg raid.

"I didn't read it," said Hermann. "But I hope he eulogized Capt. Murphy (Thomas E. of Waltham, Mass.) There, boys, was a pilot. He was the only one to return to this base from that raid, and I thought he bore a charmed life. But he didn't. He got it a couple of months later over Bremen."

Hermann is married, has no children. His mother (Lena) lives at 27 Foster st., Danbury, his father is dead. He has a 27-year-old brother Bill, with the Artillery in North Africa. He used to be steam-fitter with the Lump-Temple Co.

Rationing Is Lifted On All Inner Tubes

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today ordered the removal from rationing of all tire inner tubes, effective tomorrow.

It also announced a total of 3,900,000 new passenger car tires have been allocated for rationing in July and August, an increase of 50,000 tires in both months over the June quota.

Inner tube inventories are now sufficiently large to supply the needs of all motorists, OPA said in eliminating the requirement for rationing certificates. Tubes were brought under rationing in January, 1942, along with tires.

The agency also disclosed an additional allocation of 300,000 new passenger car tires was provided by the office of the rubber director in June, bringing the total quota to 1,900,000 tires. For each July and August the allocation is 1,550,000 tires.

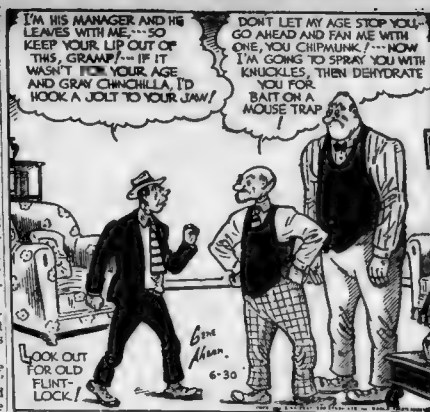

Rationing Chief Charles F. Phillips made it clear, however, that the demand for new tires still is "far in excess" of supply.

He said it would take more time "than we originally thought" to supply the needs of "B" card drivers, all of whom were made eligible for new tires May 1. He added:

"It looks as though there will be no new tires for 'A' card drivers until early in 1945.

"There is no ground whatever for all occupational drivers who apply for new tires to expect to receive them, even though there is no question of their eligibility. The supply is too small, the needs too great, for all eligible drivers to get tires."

Reports received from 70 per cent of the 5500 local rationing boards indicate, Phillips said, that about 733,000 unfilled applications

Why New Deal Must Go

HERBERT HOOVER'S address at the Republican National Convention set forth in a masterly manner the three dominant reasons why the American people must rid themselves of the New Deal.

First—not only must we win the war overwhelmingly—we must also save our constitutional and democratic institutions from destruction by bureaucratic and totalitarian encroachment.

"We are fighting not only for preservation of freedom, but also for the moral and spiritual foundation of civilization," the Former President said.

"And it is not alone those foundations under other parts of the world which concern us today.

"WE HAVE NEED TO LOOK TO OUR AMERICAN HOUSE."

Likening the New Deal to the "European revolutions" that have destroyed liberty in the Old World, Mr. Hoover observed: "Purge was their political weapon.

"Their economic system is REGIMENTATION through COERCION by BUREAUCRACY.

"Their strategy is to make public opinion BY FALSEHOOD and to destroy opposition by assassination of character THROUGH SMEARING."

And, as Mr. Hoover remarked, these have all been typical of the New Deal—and these are not what the boys who are fighting abroad want to come home to.

He continued:

"They want to be free to choose their own jobs and not be ordered to them by a bureaucrat.

"They want to be FREE AMERICANS again.

"Only BY A CHANGE IN ADMINISTRATION will our returning soldiers find freedom preserved at home."

SECOND—the gigantic problem of converting "huge plants" and finding "peacetime jobs in industry for thirty million men and women" is too big an undertaking for the bureaucratic New Deal to manage and too critical a responsibility to be confided to the New Deal.

"Can a regime," asked Mr. Hoover, "which 'forged shackles on the liberties of the people' in peacetime be trusted to return freedom to the people from the shackles of war?"

"We will need every atom of . . . power in the nation, if we are quickly to convert from guns to plowshares in such a fashion as to provide jobs and opportunity for all our people.

"That can never be had by bureaucratic curbing of initiative, class war, or any other mixture of this totalitarianism with freedom.

"The decision . . . must be made now. For the plans must be established now. We cannot be without a peace program as we were without a preparedness program.

"Only BY A CHANGE IN ADMINISTRATION will these gigantic problems be solved in a climate of freedom."

THIRD—the New Deal's blundering and furtive diplomacy is not competent to cope with the problems of making a good peace.

Yet the peace will be made by the New Deal if Mr. Roosevelt should gain his coveted sixteen years in the White House. On this point Mr. Hoover said:

"Direct conferences by heads of state and their military leaders ON MILITARY QUESTIONS are useful.

"But under our institutions and our political opinion negotiation in political matters with our Allies should be conducted by Secretaries of State.

"The President of the United States is more influential delivering considered judgments from the White House.

"The voice from that pulpit is far more potent than any beguilement in private conversation in some foreign city, or any personal power diplomacy.

"America needs A CHANGE IN ADMINISTRATION to get away from personal power diplomacy."

These are not the words of a dilettante in statecraft. They are spoken to the American people by the only living ex-President, a man who has no political ambitions for himself today.

The people will SAVE THE REPUBLIC if they heed.

Washington Scene . . . By George Dixon

(Distributed by King Features Synd. Inc. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

CHICAGO, June 30—I was wandering around the Chicago stadium when the great Republican National Convention, when I ran into Mr. Ole Olson, more erudite half of the professional duo of Olson and Johnson.

Mr. Olson had a sweaty brow and a beaming yellow arm band which continued to elude him as a sergeant-at-arms. The brow and arm-band, he explained, represented about all he had managed to salvage from the great conclave.

In addition to being sweaty, Mr. Olson's brow—a noble thing, if you take the northern exposure—was furrowed. His eyes had a searching look, something like you see in the kisser of Sir Galahad. He kept peering about as if searching for something that continued to elude him.

"What are you hunting for, Mr. Olson?" I asked. "You have the indubitable appearance of a man engaged in a great quest."

"I am," said Mr. Olson. "I am searching for the slot where they deposit used delegates."

MR. OLSEN explained that he was taking his portfolio of sergeant-at-arms with extreme gravity.

"As I understand it," he said, "the Republicans promised Mayor Kelly they would clean up after the convention. The mayor, I believe, is inclined to be critical of Republicans as it is, and I do not wish him to have any excuse for putting more slugs on us."

"I have tried to help live up to the promise. I had picked up all the old Warren buttons I could find and pickled them in brine. I have added some orange peel from California and it should result in a very tasty concoction."

On the Side

Distributed by King Features Synd. Inc. All day and all night I think about Jim.

My hopes and prayers are always for him. He may be in England, or perhaps he's in France. I'd like to be certain but I haven't the chance.

My heart is right with him as he jumps from the sky. God always watches him from the heavens so high. I live on the memories of days in the past.

And dream of the future of a love that will last.

—MRS. JAMES P. DAVIS.
MRS. DAVIS is the wife of a paratrooper. She wrote the poem the day before the invasion. Seems reasonable to believe her paratrooper was among those who landed in France . . . About a year ago a Marine stationed in the southwest Pacific wrote and asked if I could possibly arrange to have somebody mail him the clippings of this column. A feminine resident of Beverly Hills volunteered. This young woman now writes she is still sending the Marine the columns and corresponding with him. Says she: "He is a grand chap. His letters are very interesting. He has been in a lot of fighting. Judging from the photograph he sent me he must be very good looking." (Note—Some time ago I received a letter from the Marine saying he was receiving the columns and that judging from the young lady's letters he thought she must be "a wonderful person.")

MECHANICAL WINGS: Not so long ago it was reported that an inventor was nearing the perfection of mechanical wings which would enable men and women to fly like birds and angels. I wonder how the inventor is doing? Certainly having a pair of wings will be better than owning a helicopter. I can hardly wait to see the winged Mayor LaGuardia flying down Broadway after the fire engines. Or Kate Smith winging her way

"I have also preface the word 'vice' on all the Bricker placards which formerly only read 'President.' This should result in great conservation of paper and undoubtedly put me in line for something big when the Republicans take over Washington."

"However, I still do not feel I have done my complete duty. Mr. Olson, who is not so fat as Mr. Chick Johnson, but laboring manfully to even up the inequality, said he had been instructed to see that no old delegates were left lying around."

"There is something more calculated to mar the appearance of a place," he said, "than a litter of used delegates. I have found five already and I am sure more are around somewhere. The five I found did not know the convention was over on account of something they drank the first day which produced suspended animation."

"I told them to go home and they said they would not move a step until Dewey was nominated. I informed them Dewey had been nominated and they said that was ridiculous, because, if such were the case, they would have heard Governor Warren playing a bagpipe solo, 'California, Here I Go.'"

"So," added Mr. Olson, setting fire to his pants for a laugh, "I am looking for the slot. There must be a place to put discarded delegates."

MR. OLSEN, by the way, took occasion to give me a philosophical lecture.

"Do not be mean," he said. "Be careful of cracks that may wound. Remember this, no gag is any good, unless the victim—so-called—can laugh at it, too. When Chick and I started out 30 years ago we played every benefit, every little party, to which we were asked. We built up a wonderful lot of good will. And now we're cash-ing in on it. Half the people who buy tickets to our shows confide to the box office man."

"You know, Olson and Johnson always used to eat at our home when they came to Price's Corners!"

"We were in more strange houses than George Washington. And let me say this—we can go back!"

I DO NOT think this intelligence was printed; at least, I didn't see it any place. But, after the first day of the convention, they took the guns away from all the police assigned to the stadium.

I asked one of the gunless cops if Mayor Kelly was afraid his constabulary would suddenly go berserk and start shooting up the joint.

"No," he said. "We were told confidentially—and warned—not to repeat it—that it was done for fear some over-enthusiastic delegate would grab a gun and start a Fourth of July celebration."

I WAS CRAWLING through the press section at the convention when whom should I spy but Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg, the very good-looking dish who is secretary of the Democratic National Committee.

"I am not spying," said Mrs. Vredenburg. "It is just that I have lived a very secluded life away down below the Mason-Dixon line and I wanted to see a Republican."

"You know," she added cryptically, "they look just as I imagined!"

I got into a crowded elevator at the Stevens. Wedged in a corner was a very personable but exasperated looking young woman. As she squirmed to get out at her floor, she muttered: "Isn't this a h— of a way to spend a honeymoon?"

to a broadcast. Or Frank Stevens flapping his mechanical wings vigorously, as he circles over the Polo Grounds in order to keep his eye on all the hot dog sellers at the same time.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: When I graduated from college I was class prophet. I forget what I predicted. I'll have to check on it next time I go back to the old alma mater. . . . What is the record for the largest tip received in Manhattan night club history? Sam German, band vocalist, once received a thousand dollar tip from an inebriated night club patron for singing "Sidewalks of New York" . . . Why don't women carry a spare stocking? Then when a woman had a run in her stocking she could quickly switch to the spare and wouldn't have to wander around looking so miserable and self-conscious.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q. If Bob Hope was born in England as you say, why does he always state on the radio that he was born in Cleveland? A—I never heard Bob say he was born in Cleveland. He was born in Eltham, England, and brought up in Cleveland. . . . Q—Have heard no fewer than six places named as the scene of the first professional baseball game played at night. What do you say? A—The first night professional baseball game was played July 8, 1909, at Grand Rapids, Mich., between the home team and that of Zanesville, Ohio, of the Central League. Light was furnished by 30 arcs on the grandstand and 10 searchlights scattered around the field.

PASSING BY: "Big Jeff" Tesreau, once a pitcher for the Giants. Has been baseball coach at Dartmouth 26 years. That's a long time to hold a coaching job. Still it is not the record. Andy Coakley coached baseball at Columbia 30 years. . . . Claudette Colbert has been investing some of her money in apartment house property. A lot of smart people seem to be doing that now. There must be a reason.

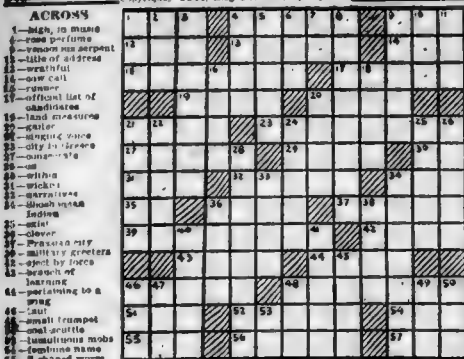

"I have a great, big, soft spot for animals!"

Macaroni Stuffed Peppers made with Wine

WAR FOOD RECIPE

Prepare 6 green peppers, boil 5 min. in salted water, drain, place in baking pan. Fill with mixture of 2 cups cooked macaroni, 1 cup diced cheese, 1 cup diced fresh tomatoes, ½ cup bread crumbs, 1 minced onion, 1 tsp. salt, ½ tsp. sugar, ½ cup Burgundy wine. Pour ½ inch of boiling water around peppers, bake 30 minutes in moderate oven (350° F.). Serves six.

Enjoy wine in the dish and with it

Not a bit of meat goes into these tasty stuffed peppers, yet meat-eaters love them! You see, you make this dish with wine—for flavor. Then you serve the same wine at table—for good cheer. The wine we suggest for this wartime entree is full-bodied California Burgundy. Get some from your wine merchant today. Wine Advisory Board, San Francisco 5.

Wallace Meets and Burned Badly After Superfort Raid

By CLYDE FARNSWORTH
U.S. ARMY AIR FORCE HOSPITAL, West China, June 27 (AP)—A boy from Missouri by in a darkened room, arms and legs swathed in bandages, his injuries part of the price America paid for the Superfortress raid at Awata, Japan. He could detect only a faint glimmer through the gauze pads saturated with sulfadiazine and boric acid.

Maj. Robert Whittington, Jr., Superfort, La., chief of the survival service of this air force hospital, said:

"I want you to meet the Vice President of the United States."

Vice President Wallace took the boy's hand, bare at the end of an amputated limb.

"I guess you are going to make it, son," the Vice President said. "Take it easy. We are all pulling with you."

The boy's voice shook a little.

"I'm sure glad to see—I mean to meet—you, Mr. Wallace," he said. "Nice of you to drop in I sure appreciate it."

Wallace already had the boy's name: Sgt. George Holzbaun, Jr., 25, whose wife, Wanda, lives on a farm outside Independence, Mo. The visit was over in a few minutes, what Holzbaun had gone through was eloquent enough without words. He was tailgunner on a B-29 which crashed in reconnaissance over Yawata after the Superfortress raid.

Holzbaun's wife had written him he was the father of a boy, but a subsequent letter told of the death of the child.

Wallace made a note to telephone Mrs. Holzbaun when he gets back to Washington.

Hearing this was like medicine to Holzbaun.

"How about that?" he told a nurse happily. "The vice-president is going to call my wife to tell her about me. Not bad for someone who met the vice-president without seeing him."

Short, Punchy Sentences Dewey's Goal in Speeches

By JAMES MARLOW
CHICAGO, June 30 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey will not make any carefully prepared speeches in his campaign for President.

His lieutenants say he spends 60 hours working out an average speech. He likes short, clipped sentences. They're easy to absorb and listen to.

When he makes a point, he gives time for it to sink in before going on to the next one. His speeches are short. None of this is accidental.

Lowell Thomas, radio commentator, is a close friend. He has helped Dewey in radio delivery. Often Dewey tries out speeches on his wife.

Sometimes he has recordings of a speech made—before publicly delivering it—and plays it over to learn how he sounds.

Also he does this:

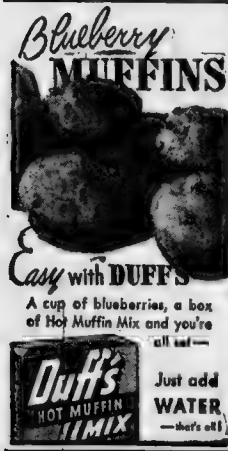

Radio stations make recordings of his broadcast speeches. After delivering one, he has gone over to the studio to listen to the recording.

He makes notes on where and how he thinks he could have improved what he said. He makes the improvement in his next speech.

ST. LOUIS, June 30 (AP)—
Chester Lake, a field representative for the Rural Electrification
Administration (REA), said today he has "lost three pounds" as a result of a self-imposed fast in protest of what he called "political domination" of the agency.

cently, I don't want to live," said
31-year-old Lake, whose $38,000-a-

Department of Agriculture.

He said he had taken no nourishment of any kind since addressing a luncheon club Wednesday noon, but consumes a glass of water each hour. He normally weighs 200 pounds, he said.

New Penicillin

HILLSBORO, Ore., June 30 (AP)—The next important step in obtaining even wider benefits from penicillin will be a tablet form, says Dr. William E. Hinds, who has produced quantities of the drug in his office laboratory.

Dr. Hinds reported today he has a penicillin ointment fairly well perfected, and is busy developing a new soluble type expected to give more accurate curative results.

George E. Douty, AR. 2-C, of Salem st., Andover, has been cited by Adm. Halsey for effective performance in torpedo plane attacks against the Jap base at Rabaul.

Veterans' Friend

Q—I was given an honorable discharge from the U. S. Army in order to secure a job in war industry. I was 42 years old at the time. Am I entitled to mustering-out pay, and what is the meaning of Sec. 11, C.R. No. 39 W. D. 1943?

A—You are not entitled to mustering-out pay. The reason discharging on your discharge, which you mention above, was to allow you to leave the armed forces in order to accept employment in a war plant special orders, since rescinded.

Q—My husband requested allotment for me about six weeks ago. Since that time he has been shipped overseas. I would like to know if it has been accepted and to whom should I write? G. M., Jamaica Plain.

A—You should write Office of Dependency and Allotments, Newark, N. J. His application, if filed, must clear through that office.

Q—My son was inducted into the Navy and stationed at Newport for three weeks when he received a medical discharge. However, I am informed that he is entitled to mustering-out pay; is that correct? V. M., Lowell.

A—Yes, he may apply for $100 mustering-out pay. File application with Bureau of Supply and Accounts, U. S. Navy Dept., Cleveland, Ohio.

—My husband is now going through basic training at a naval base. My daughter is ill and must see her tonsils removed, according to doctors. Does the government provide any aid in my case. E. E., Keene, N. H.

A—In your State I believe the only immediate aid is through the local Red Cross chapter. They will advise you as to procedure.

(All questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor will be answered in the columns of the Recorder. If you are a discharged serviceman or woman and have a problem confronting you, write Veterans' Friend Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass. Gardens Back In Good Shape

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head at Vegetable School, and Director of the Boston-American-Agriculture Extension Service Garden Demonstration.

Gardens that looked so hopeless during the drought of a few weeks ago now are in first class shape. The heavy rains that finally came and the good weather of the last few days seem to put even the most sorry gardens back on their feet.

Our garden on the Common is reaching its prime as far as most of the main crops are concerned. Under the influence of warm weather and long days most of the crops are growing fast. Do not get the idea that your work is over for the year, however. The need for keeping close to the job is more important than ever.

TUNE YOUR HARVESTS

For the next two or three weeks you will find that there is not enough time to do all the necessary.

Second plantings of beets and carrots need attention. Our second plantings are now about ready to weed and thin, and this job must not be delayed too long during midsummer.

The aim with good gardeners is to grow a crop fast. This unchecked growth is what produces high quality. On the other hand, it is necessary to recognize the best stage for harvesting. Most gardeners wait too long, and with extreme heat such as we have experienced for the last few days, crops will not retain their quality. Do not let your crops become overgrown.

After our week of rain many crops were seen to wilt when the sun first struck them. This is nature's way of protecting the plant from too much water loss. In most cases it will do no harm.

DEADLINE ON CORN

A number of gardeners have asked when they could plant their last batch of corn. With the large varieties it is already too late, but if you use one of the fast maturing hybrids it is still possible to get a matured crop before frost in most areas.

I have already seen a number of gardens where land is standing idle after harvesting early spinach, lettuce and peas. This may not seem very important as there are only a few feet of land involved but there is no reason why more food cannot be produced on these idle spots. Our garden on the Common already has had the land where peas were harvested planted to beans. Keep in mind that unless this land is planted it will grow weeds which will cause trouble.

CABBAGE SPLITTING

Early cabbage splits easily after rains and much of the crop is lost in this manner. Splitting can be prevented by splitting the plant over or running a spade down one side of the stem. This will cut some of the roots and prevent the plant from taking in too much water. This should only be done after the heads reach full size.

'Dr. Wassell' Film Boasts All the Screen's 'Musts'

By PEGGY DOYLE

Somehow the grim story of Dr. Corydon M. Wassell's heroic snatch of 11 badly wounded American sailors from the Japs at Java . . . for which he received the Navy Medal . . . and a stirring Presidential citation . . . hardly jibes with the spectacular "Story of Dr. Wassell" now showing on the Metropolitan screen.

It may be the fiction treatment Cecil B. De Mille, Hollywood's box-office-wise dean of producer-directors, has given it. It might be the showy Technicolor. It could be both.

It will be boxoffice, never doubt it, for it boasts all the screen "musts," romance, comedy, a lusty chase across the mountains, a happy ending. The story of how the 58-year-old Navy doctor brought a group of wounded sailors out of Java in April, 1942, as related over the radio by the President, stirred the nation. It is all there on the Met screen but overshadowed, even belittled by the "glamour job" it has been given.

Gary Cooper's Dr. Wassell, who is played with unsmiling gravity, has had an unhappy romance, during his horse-and-buggy days in Arkansas you are persistently reminded. But there is unexpected reunion in Java and a happy-ever-after fadeout.

The girl is Laraine Day, cast as a nurse and unfailingly lovely throughout the unrelenting. There is, too, a beautiful Japanese girl, whose blood saves a gravely wounded sailor from the battered cruiser Marbledhead. Despite those howls of "pollution" of "white" blood by the Bilbos and the Ranks, the wounded lad had only deep gratitude for this gift of life-saving Oriental blood. Carol Thurston, incidentally, who plays the Japanese, reveals genuine talent in this, her film debut. Mark her for a future on the screen.

Renny McEvoy is called upon to be comic and unaware when the Java situation is toughest, and this we found a little nauseating, having just viewed "Attack!" the War Department's undiluted close-up of war as it was fought on New Britain. Nor does the chase across the mountains, with the sick men being given a roller-coaster shakeup, tally with the correspondents' and radio commentators' reiterated reports of the tenderness shown the D-Day wounded men by nurses and doctors. "The Story of Dr. Wassell" is a handsome, well-paced, expertly directed production but more people the producer-director De Mille imagines rearing having their war films distorted with escapist hokum.

'Tampico' at Uptown

"Tampico," co-starring Edward G. Robinson and Lynn Bari in a story of counter-espionage, now tops the Uptown bill. Teamed with it is "Up in Mabel's Room."

Boston Has Beauty, Fun

By DON WARD

Through the stage door at the RKO-Boston this week are passing some of the prettiest girls you ever saw. George White's "Scandals" is in town, and that means that there's no rationing on les blondes, brunettes and redheads.

The beauties aren't the only ones who make it a summertime treat at the K-B. China contributes a sizeable payment on her end-lease by sending us the euphoniously named trio, Ming, Ling and Hooshee. Ming and Ling are two boys who play the "accor-kens" and "geeter" for one thing, while little Miss Hooshee (what a delicious name that is!) sings and dances. And what stopped the younger crowd were the boys' comedy songs and impersonations of Frankie, Bing and the Ink Spots. For sheer genius in acrobatic dancing—the most skillful you've ever seen hereabouts—there's the lovely-to-look-at Miriam LaVelle, whose breath-taking routines are simply out of this world. And for further cheek there's Professor Backwards, who can spell things the spinal meningitis and write it backwards on the double-quick, and do the same thing with Massachussetts and Connecticut at the same time!

28—Boston American, June 30

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

ALL-OVER FRAGRANCE is an antidote to heat. Somehow or other you don't mind the sticky, sweltering heat wave so much... when after your refreshing dip... you envelop your body with a lovely scent so pleasing to the nostrils... creating an aura of true femininity.

It creates such crisp freshness... figuratively and literally... that you're able to go forth under the sun... pursuing the hectic routine we're all called upon to fulfill. These are days when every fastidious gal practically likes to wallow in toilet water... lasting fragrance.

One of the loveliest of toilet waters I've found... is a cream toilet water... in lovely pastel colors. It is so unusually creamy, smooth and longlasting in true capture of the white lilac, or gardenia, or carnation... that it is wonderful to use on the hands and forearms... as well as for a body rub. Peach, yellow, blue and green... in delicate shades... are raving-inducing captivations of fragrances like something out of this world.

EVER-LASTING DELIGHT

This is no ordinary toilet water, believe me. Once you feel its rich smoothness imparted to your body... your stock value will jump high over par. You'll want to inhale the haunting fragrance constantly... at home... at the beach... or at the office. Because it is so highly concentrated... you won't need more than a touch here or there for a scoring effect.

Behind the ears... or under the arms... or in the crook of the neck... these and other subtle spots will perpetuate the bewitching spell as the cream toilet water mixes with the warmth of your body for everlasting delight.

Counterparts of these cream toilet waters may also be had in sachets... an important adjunct in any gal's good-grooming habits... for sachet... or dry perfume is ideal for bureau drawers... in handkerchief and lingerie cases... and in your purse.

This cream toilet water is a product of a woman perfumer... who true to her sex... has captured the niceties in fragrances which every woman craves.

For the name of this "different" cream toilet water, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cold Baked Bean Treats

By MARTHA LEE

ONE OF THE NICEST DISHES to serve on Sunday night had its origin among the Puritan cooks of early New England—cold baked beans. The choice of this appetizing dish for Sunday in Puritan households was dictated by the religious ban against cooking on that day. The early New England cooks soaked the beans all Friday night and cooked them most of Saturday, to have them ready for the fireless Sabbath.

Today, one way to have this cool treat on a warm day is to open a carton of quick-frozen baked beans and let them thaw. These beans are baked in traditional style New England bean pots in brick ovens.

MENU SUGGESTIONS

Serve the beans with a generous salad—tomatoes stuffed with cole slaw or a mixed green salad bowl is a good choice. The dark, whole grain breads have traditional affinity for baked beans—so, of course, have ketchup and chili sauce. Stuffed eggs, too, are traditional—New England accompaniments for cold baked beans.

If you own a set of individual bean pots or small pottery ramekins, you'll find them ideal containers for cold baked beans. Just ladle out the beans into the little containers and take them to the table on a tray or platter, to be served one to each plate.

Cold baked beans mixed with other vegetables, bacon, etc., make excellent salads, too. Take these for example:

BAKED BEAN AND BACON SALAD

2 cups baked beans
6 slices crisp bacon, sliced
1/4 cup diced cooked beets
2 stalks celery, chopped
2 tbsp. minced sweet pickle
1 tbsp. ketchup and cooked salad dressing to moisten

Mix all ingredients together and serve in lettuce cups. Makes about 6 salads.

BAKED BEAN AND ONION SALAD

3 cups cold baked beans
10 mild onions 1 1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. pepper 2 tbsp. salad oil
1 tsp. sugar 1 scant cup vinegar

Peel and slice onions very fine. Chop very fine. Place cold baked beans in salad bowl. Add onion, salt, pepper, salad oil, sugar and vinegar. Toss and mix with a fork lightly, but thoroughly, and garnish with ol-lives and 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced, and serve on lettuce leaves. Makes about 6 servings.

Cold Baked Bean Sandwiches

Another delicious treat with cold baked beans is a sandwich. It can be served with a hot or iced beverage, fruit and cookies for a satisfying light supper.

BAKED BEAN SANDWICHES

Spread cold baked beans between slices of buttered bread or toast, with a sprinkling of ketchup. For baked bean club sandwiches, spread slices of toast with mashed baked beans, top off with slices of hot buttered toast, then with sliced tomatoes, lettuce and mayonnaise and then with a final slice of toast.

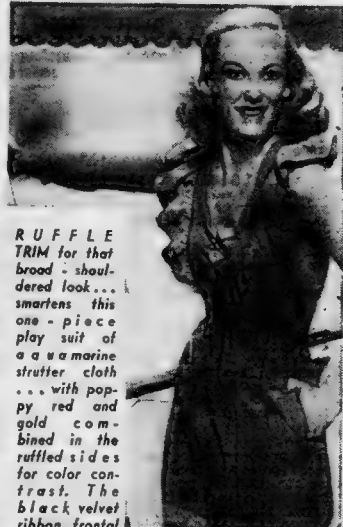

Mash or puree beans or use whole. Mix with mayonnaise, and spread on buttered brown bread or rye toast. Desired seasonings are: lemon juice, horseradish, ketchup, mustard, tarragon vinegar, onion juice, or finely chopped celery.

On a slice of buttered toast put a leaf of lettuce, cover with cold baked beans, cover with sliced tomato, cooked bacon and with another slice of buttered toast. Garnish plate with a pickle and celery tips.

SAVORY BAKED BEAN SANDWICHES

1 cup baked beans
1/4 cup chopped nut meats
1/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 small onion, minced
2 tbsp. tomato ketchup
1/4 tsp. salt
12 slices buttered toast

Mash beans and add nuts, vegetables, and seasonings, mixing thoroughly; spread between slices of toast. Makes 6 sandwiches.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, THURSDAY—In his column the other day, Ernie Pyle said he was writing a collection of items, and I have a feeling that I should do the same, for I have so many unrelated things that I want to talk about. I'll have to take them one at a time, however.

First of all, I have had a number of letters from women who feel resentful because in the reports of overseas actions, so often those who write in newspapers or talk over the air minimize our losses.

In reporting a bombing mission, for instance, they will say: "Only six bombers failed to return."

THAT LITTLE WORD "ONLY," when it is read by a woman whose son or whose husband was on one of those lost bombers, creates a sense of deep bitterness.

The Nazis have minimized the value of human life, and these women ask: "Have we become so contaminated by fighting against them that we do not treasure every individual?"

One woman picks out a report written on the Normandy beachhead: "Opposition was only a nuisance; German snipers killed quite a few men."

I REALIZE THAT in comparison to the estimates which must be made before any attack, of the possible loss of human life, the actual loss seems small and these reporters express relief.

Ernie Pyle, however, seems to have the greatest understanding of the feelings of the people at home, and he rarely makes such mistakes. So he often brings healing to hurt souls instead of adding sorrow.

Brown Gains in Popularity

By BETTINA BEDWELL

MAYBE you have noticed how brown is coming into the styles as about the smartest Summer shade. And brown is a color with a future which looks very bright indeed. It is particularly good as a dressy color, and for that very good outfit you might consider it.

Carrie Munn, who is certainly one of our most original and exciting big-name designers, plumps for brown as a dressy Summer shade. She makes the suit in our sketch in this color, a brown silk crepe printed with tiny blue lambs.

It is stunning. The jacket is trimmed with narrow black Valenciennes lace, which is frilled around the design at the shoulders, on the jacket lapels and on the folded-up pockets. Pale-blue gloves and a wide-brimmed light-blue hat make the perfect accessories with this suit.

MANUEL ORTIZ came roaring down through the stretch like a real champion to win from stout hearted Larry Bolvin in a blistering finish in their 10-round bout at a Callahan A. C. show at National League Park before 5500 fans. Going into the ninth round Ortiz was leading by a small margin.

He knew he had to throw every punch in the book to win. He did and in such convincing fashion that he won the unanimous decision of Referee Tommy Rawson and Judges Joe Santapio and Eddie Curley.

Bolvin, on the short end of 10 to 1 betting, fought the most amazing battle of his career. In the early rounds of the bout, he outscored the little Mexican. In the middle part of the tussle, when Ortiz tried desperately to take command, Bolvin traded blows with him.

Manuel Ortiz

From the sixth round on Ortiz started to come along at a winning clip. At first Ortiz' drive was not noticeable to many of the fans. Then it picked up speed. In the ninth round Ortiz was blazing away with both hands in the midst of one of his rallies, he dropped Bolvin to the canvas for a count of nine.

Bolvin was in poor condition when he struggled to his feet. Ortiz swarmed all over him and prepared for the kill. The gods frowned and Bolvin was saved.

In the tenth round, Ortiz left his corner swinging with both hands. He forced Bolvin around the ring under the fury of his attack. Larry at times rallied, but he was weary and found it difficult to hold off the relentless drives of the world's bantamweight king.

The crowd was on its feet cheering frantically during the closing rounds of the bout. Many of the fans surged down around the ring. Sentiment was with Bolvin as a result of his surprisingly good showing, but in the bitter struggle under the lights of the ring the final charge of the champion could not be denied. Ortiz won by a comfortable margin as a result of his great finish.

Only One Knockdown

THE KNOCKDOWN scored by Ortiz in the ninth round was the only one of the bout. In the eighth session, Ortiz splashed Bolvin into the lower rope. Larry was still on his feet and Ortiz could have hit him again and been within the rules but he didn't do so. He gave Larry a chance to get straightened up before he started after him again.

In the sixth round, Ortiz slipped to the canvas after he landed with a series of blows to the head and body.

Ortiz is a serious fighting machine. He makes few ring mistakes. When he finds an opening for his punches and starts barraging with both hands he is a perfect picture of a champion.

He was at his best during his drive in the ninth round. The right hand that leveled Bolvin was tossed from the waist line and was delivered as Ortiz came flying out of a half crouching position. It was only fine physical condition that enabled Bolvin to weather the tenth round after the heavy punishment he received in the ninth session.

Bolvin's Early Lead

ORTIZ STARTED slowly and before he knew it Bolvin had won the first two rounds. The third round was even with Ortiz scoring with body blows.

Ortiz took the fourth round, dropped the fifth, and was out front again in the sixth chapter. Ortiz picked up points in the seventh and eighth rounds, but his margin was very slim in these chapters.

Ortiz seemed to be waiting for something. Tommy Farmer and Harry Kelley set off the fuse between rounds. They told Ortiz he had to win the last two sessions. The little Mexican then went to town and proved why he is such a champion.

Ortiz proved he can fight well as a featherweight. Willie Pep, world's champion, will be his next opponent in a bout at National League Park on July 17.

Irish Johnny Flynn of New York, a terrific puncher with both hands, won from Earl Lowman of New York in ten rounds. Flynn scored with enough hefty blows to knock out half a dozen ordinary opponents.

Jimmy Mulligan of Lowell stopped Benny Williams of Newark in a round. A terrific left hand went to the stomach was the victory wallop.

CHICAGO, June 30 (AP) — Conn McCreary, the Calumet Farms jockey who is the nation's leading money rider, suffered a fracture of the right wrist in an automobile accident today, a Washington Park spokesman said, an injury that would eliminate McCreary from important stake assignments in the current Arlington-Washington Park meeting.

McCreary and a stable employee, Sammy Green, were en route to Washington Park when their car hit a tree in suburban Chicago Heights where McCreary is living.

He was taken to St. James Hospital, Chicago Heights, where it was reported his wrist was placed in a cast.

McCreary was suspended earlier this week, for an alleged foul, for the duration of the meeting except for the stake events.

He was to have ridden in the Arlington Lassie Stakes tomorrow, in the $50,000 Stars and Stripes Handicap on Tuesday, July 4, and in the Skokie Handicap July 6.

In the Stars and Stripes he would have been up on Pensive, the Calumet Farms 3-year-old with which McCreary won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

New York newspapers are lambasting brother Branch Rickey again. The cause this time is his zeal in pursuit of pennies to the detriment of his Brooklyn Baseball Club. The President of the slipping Dodgers is a baseball executive of the old school, trained in the notion that the hired hands should play ball even in their spare time to gather in a couple of more dollars for the club, even if the hired hands must go without sleep and rest.

According to the chorused N. Y. complaints, the Dodgers played an exhibition game at Toledo Tuesday night, climbed aboard a train at 1:30 a. m., tumbled out of the train at Chicago at 5:30 a. m. and a few hours later engaged the rest-favored Cubs in a double-header.

MAKES PLAYERS WORK

If the Dodgers had won perhaps no one would have thought to upbraid Brother Branch, but the Cubs poured on a 23-hit attack and took both ends of the double bill by 12 to 6 and 6 to 2, so there is no end of bitterness.

Rickey is an habitual exhibition-game scheduler. Last season the Dodgers never could be sure when the train would be stopped between major league points and they would be told that this is where we are playing today, boys, just when the boys were settling down to their reading or writing or gin rummy.

Those exhibitions are an irksome thing to ball players. The penny-hunting stops upset the routine, cause inconvenience all around and sometimes work to a club's disadvantage in the regular league games that follow.

This leads to grumbling and dissension and in the long run is scarcely worth the trouble.

DUROCHER TAMED

That double defeat, incidentally, left the Dodgers with a record of four wins in 20 starts in the West, which is pretty terrible baseball. I don't know who they should blame those other defeats on. Perhaps the Dodgers simply can't play much baseball in the first place.

IT'S HANDY—Catherine Fox, left, blazes out of trap in the Chicago Victory golf, while Irene Kosner uses a walkie-talkie radio to report to the clubhouse. The radio device is far easier to carry than the former cumbersome portable transmitters used in the past.

As to that, they were making some kind of a fight for second place until the Toledo stop and the Cubs' double-header tripped them up and left them sprawling all over the premises. Now they are back down in the second division.

Slow Fenway Tilts Threaten Twi Ball

By BILL GRIMES

Although they have drawn approximately twice as many cash customers as attend regular afternoon contests, twilight games are doomed unless they are speeded up.

The three twilight games played by the Red Sox-Yankee game, which was the first twilight affair of the season, took two hours and 14 minutes to play and was to have been called at the end of the inning, in which Roy Partee broke it up with a home run. The next late game, with the Athletics as the attraction, went off fairly smoothly and was over in an hour and three quarters but it took two hours and five minutes to play Wednesday's twilight game with the White Sox.

In three twilight games, the Red Sox have drawn 16,072, which is a far better "take" than would have been cut up if those games had been started at 3 o'clock. Due to the Suffolk Downs race meeting, the week day games haven't averaged 3000 this season. Therefore, it is up to the Brass Hats to inject more hustle in the players during twilight games.

CATCH OF THE YEAR

Roy Partee made the catch of the year when he dove on top of the canvas roller and caught a foul off Gerry Clarke's bat. Then, Manager Cronin ended the inning by making a jumping catch of Vince Castino's line drive.

After pitching for Columbus in the American Association, where it's really hot, for four years, "Red" Barrett wasn't handicapped by the heat. And, incidentally, Barrett has paid his way since he joined the Red Sox.

One reason for Barrett's effectiveness is that he's in fine physical condition, as was demonstrated in the 6th inning, which he opened with a two-bagger and then dashed to third on Tom McBride's bunt.

After that strenuous work, "Red" turned the next eight White Sox down in order. Due to the extreme heat, Manager Jimmy Dykes decided to save Bill Dietrich for the final game this afternoon, another twilight affair. Dietrich has turned in nine victories against four defeats for the White Sox this season. However, as badly as he wanted to break the spell the Red Sox have had on his South Siders this year, Dykes refused to subject his "ace" hurler to the boiling sun and high humidity, which prevailed yesterday.

Dietrich goes this afternoon against Clem Hausmann. The White Sox gave "Tex" Hughes a real going over in the early innings. There's no telling how many runs the Dykesmen would have pushed across the plate in the first and second rounds but for a couple of grand stops by Bobby Doerr back of second base.

Wally Moses, who was on second, thought that "Joe" Tucker's hit went through to the outfield and so he rounded third base. Doerr got the ball on the short stop side of the second base and his throw to Jim Tabor trapped Moses. Jimmy Dykes hopped all over Umpire Bill Grieve when "Joe" was called out on strikes in the third.

Before the game, Dykes and Grieve were such good pals that Jimmy even swept off the plate. Joe Cronin sparked the Red Sox to a four run second inning with a home run drive which landed high in the screen. After two rounds, Dykes was satisfied that it wasn't Ed Lopat's day. So, he waved Joe Haynes to take over in the Red Sox half of the third. Joe got off to a good start by striking out his brother-in-law, one Joseph Edward Cronin. And, he repeated that feat in the fourth. The fans, who braved the sun in the first base boxes, took a terrific beating.

HEAT GETS HUGHSON

Hughson succumbed to the heat after five rounds and Frank "Red" Barrett took over. "Tex" was in trouble in every inning. Apparently, the New England heat is more distressing than the brand they serve up in Texas. It's a rare occurrence when Hughson gives eleven hits in five innings, as he did yesterday. Mike Tresh, who was injured in a collision with Jim Tabor during Wednesday's twilight game, returned to Chicago yesterday. His draft board wants to take a look at him. Joe Haynes wilted in White Sox yesterday. "Red" Barrett, who relieved Hughson, turned the trick, although he wasn't given credit for the victory, mainly because Hughson went five innings.

Billy Conn on March Abroad

LONDON, June 29 (AP)—Cpl. Billy Conn, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, arrived today in Great Britain. The fighter, who in June, 1941, came within three rounds of lifting Joe Louis' heavyweight crown, starts a week's training tomorrow in preparation for an Army camp exhibition tour.

Conn indicated that should he and Louis cross paths over here, it would "be just a social affair." Conn enlisted in the Army March 7, 1942, and has been a boxing instructor in various camps.

Leaders Realize Sports Necessity

CHICAGO, June 30 (AP)—Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western Conference, says that "our war leaders realize sports competition is as necessary now as in time of peace."

Speaking at the annual sports day program of the Chicago Kiwanis Club yesterday, Griffith said the impending intercollegiate football campaign will continue to hold general interest.

Great Swim Slate Lined up by Boston

The City of Boston Park Department, in addition to its regular swimming program for older boys and girls, this summer is sponsoring a huge program that has activities for younger boys and girls, grown-up adults, and men and women of the armed forces.

For men, a physical fitness program will be carried out, with the Men's division of the L. St. Baths the scene. A course of calisthenics, as laid out by the services, will be held, with four 20 to 30 minute classes being held every day. With loud speakers aiding the instructors, classes will be at 7:30 a. m., 10:30 a. m.; 2:30 p. m., and 5:30 p. m.

For the youngsters, a Learn to Swim program has been planned, with boys and girls 10 to 16 years eligible. At 11 beaches, an instructor will be on hand, to teach the kids how to swim freestyle, breaststroke, with classes starting about one hour before high tide.

ALL BEACHES INCLUDED

The 11 beaches at which these classes will be conducted include the three divisions of the famous L. St. Baths in South Boston (men, women and boys); Savin Hill, Tenen, Columbus Park, City Point (Head House), World War Memorial Park, North End Park, Charlesbank; and the combined beach sections in South Boston known at M St. and K St. beaches.

This Learn to Swim campaign fits in with the Park Department's annual swimming program for boys and girls 16 and over. Weekly swimming races will be held at these beaches, and the best at each beach will compete in the annual championship meet Aug. 6 at South Boston Yacht Club. Winners here compete in the New England AAAU championships, Aug. 20, at Carson Beach. Those youngsters who learn to swim in the other classes will compete in special events in the Aug. 6 meet.

In addition to these two programs, the Park Department also offers special life saving and water safety courses, for members of the armed forces, both men and women. Another summer course is that in boating, for boys and girls under 14, to learn how to handle a boat safely.

Herb Pennock Denies Bucky Harris Rumor

PHILADELPHIA, June 30 (INS)—General Manager Herb Pennock, of the Phillies, flatly denied today, whispered reports that the Blue Jays are wooing Bucky Harris again because Manager Freddie Fitzsimmons is squabbling with his players. "Absolutely nothing to it," scoffed Pennock. "I can't understand how such a rumor got started."

Veterans' Fund Nearing Goal

An exceptionally well matched field of eight proven routers will be sent over the three-eighths of a mile in the seventh Veterans' Special at Raynham Park tonight.

This big third race feature every Friday night for the Record-American fund for disabled war veterans who are hospitalized in this area has become one of the most popular attractions at the track.

General Manager Russ Murray, who has planned these races in an effort to gift the fund with the tremendous sum of $20,000, is looking forward to seeing tonight's total boost the figure over the $13,000 mark.

And this evening it wouldn't be surprising to see the "Take" hit $2000, for Racing Secretary Leo Hartwell has matched Breeze Fast, Fay, Pilot Craft, Sid, Red Rose, Jump High, Sooner and Food Hopes over the gruelling three-eighths course.

It should be a race worth seeing. The fund to date, week by week:

May 19	$1972.15
May 26	2227.44
June 2	2273.67
June 9	1626.45

Ellie Knowles Golf Crown Seems Safe

RYE, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—Senior golfers seeking to snatch the crown held by Ellie Knowles of Rye had a tough chore today. He had finished his 36-hole round with 145, and only three of the field of about 250 had a chance to catch him.

With one round still to play, those with an outside chance were Charles P. Burgess of Baltusrol, N. J., 74; William C. Hunt, Houston, Tex., 75, and Fred L. Riggins, Black River, Mich., 75.

Attorney, Star Pacer, Still Collecting

CLEVELAND, June 30 (AP)—Attorney, tops of the 2-year-old money winners at pacing in 1943, is still collecting the coin. The Wilcox Farm's brown son of Volomite made his first appearance of the season at North Randall's Grand Circuit track yesterday and coasted to a straight heat victory in the $2,484 Matron Stake.
